With Lockdown II fast approaching, we ask you: Have you considered what you’ll be pickling next time around? For inspiration, consider going through your fall/winter wardrobe right about now? Donate your gently used winter clothes (https://www.instagram.com/p/several super generous spots around the city who have volunteered to host additional donation drop-off boxes for them:

- Philly Phreedom Network (West)
- Lather Hair Studio (Brewerytown)
- Crust Vegan Bakery (Manayunk)
- Jinxed (Fishtown)

These locations will be collecting donations through Oct 29 during their posted business hours. These are all in addition to their 24/7 donation drop-off box.

DesignPhiladelphia (https://www.designphiladelphia.org/) is about halfway through as of this writing, and while it’s true that all festivities are on hold this year, you can still participate.

And finally, this week’s to-do list:

- On the 54th anniversary of the Black Panther Party for Self Defense founded in Oakland CA on October 15th 1966, the land-based revolutionaries and community organizers of the Philly Peace Park will gather at the North Philly Peace Park to honor this occasion with the public unveiling of the “Prophecy Fullfilled” mural at the North Philly Peace Park curated by @glo.san and the Art Team. Please join us at 5:30pm-7pm. #art #blackpantherparty #northphillypeacepark #peacetown #PhillyPeacePark #phillymurals #solidarity

Plus, check out this week’s episode of the South Fellini Podcast, “Crumb Bum Millionaire,” (http://southfellini.com/crumb bum
Speaking of, we also really enjoyed this BBC podcast on Marcus Garvey & The Black Star Line (https://podcasts.apple.com/us/podcast/marcus-garvey-and-the-black-star-line)

And on Tuesday night, check out this free audio drama production of Sinclair Lewis's It Can't Happen (https://www.berkeleyrep.org)
