130-Acre Camp Innabah Preserved Forever in East Vincent Township, Chester County by French & Pickering Creeks Conservation Trust

French & Pickering Creeks Conservation

Trust and the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference of The United Methodist Church are delighted to announce the completion of a voluntary land conservation agreement to preserve Camp Innabah's 130-acre property along Pughtown Road in East Vincent Township. A space that has been a cherished center for community, outdoor recreation, and connection to the natural world for generations will never face the pressures of land development.

"After working with the Camp for several years to develop an agreement which balances long term preservation and recreational access with the safety of the Camp's guests, French & Pickering is excited to partner with the Camp and the community to permanently protect this natural treasure. We particularly appreciate the significant funding assistance from our State, County, and Municipal partners," said Karl Russek, Conservation Director for French & Pickering. Read More

Heritage Conservancy Preserves 60 Acres of Land in Bucks County in December

In December 2024, Heritage Conservancy preserved a total of 60 acres of Bucks County natural and farmland in three separate Conservation Easements. All of these easements closed in the same week! This brings our 2024 tally to 335 acres of conserved land. Conservation easements put in place by Heritage Conservancy allow private owners to protect their property for public benefit now and for generations to come. Our perpetual role helps keep

Bucks County and the surrounding area green and beautiful, protecting the natural areas, agricultural fields, and bucolic views that make this region special. These three properties are only our latest projects, contributing to the 16,000+ acres of land protected by Heritage Conservancy. Read More

Western Pennsylvania Conservancy Protects Two More Properties to Expand Popular Outdoor Recreation Areas in Fayette County

Western Pennsylvania Conservancy announced the purchase of two properties, totaling 97 acres, in Stewart Township, Fayette County that will be added to popular outdoor recreation and natural areas in the Laurel Highlands. Read More

A 44-acre forested property located near State Route 381 consists of limestone outcrops along the steep Youghiogheny River Gorge and a mature forest canopy of sugar maple, basswood, oak and shagbark hickory. The property is located within the Upper Lick Run Natural Heritage Area. The property has been added to the Conservancy's now 5,163-acre Bear Run Nature Reserve.

Another forested property, totaling 53 acres, is now officially part of Ohioyle State Park, which the Conservancy first purchased land in the 1950s that helped establish the park a decade later. The property is adjacent to the Laurel Highlands Hiking Trail, a 70-mile mountainous trail that runs along Laurel Ridge in the Laurel Highlands, the property will protect the viewshed for hikers experiencing this section of the wilderness trail that runs through the state park, near Mile Marker 3. The property hosts important habitat for threatened and sensitive bird and other wildlife species.

Lancaster Conservancy Announces Acquisition of Historic Hellam Preserve in York County

Lancaster Conservancy is excited to announce the acquisition of a 56-acre property currently known as the Historic Hellam Preserve located in both Hallam Borough and Hellam Township in York County. The property includes floodplain forest, meadow, a section of Kreutz Creek, and agricultural land. The preserve also includes several historic structures including a renovated 19th century bank barn and farmhouse and a restored 18th century log cabin. The preserve is being donated to the Conservancy by the Graham Family who acquired the property tract by tract and lovingly restored the historic structures. In honor of Ingrid Graham whose vision led to the development of what is a cultural, historic, and conservation site, the Conservancy will rename the preserve the Ingrid Graham Historic Hellam Nature Preserve. ## Transit leader Bill Webster takes helm at Chestnut Hill Conservancy board

The Chestnut Hill Conservancy has named Bill Webster, SEPTA's Chief Communications Officer, as the new president of its board of directors, the organization announced.

Webster succeeds Eileen Javers, who led the organization for eight years and will remain on the board and executive committee. The appointment comes as the conservancy works to balance historic preservation with environmental conservation in Philadelphia's Chestnut Hill neighborhood.

"Chestnut Hill is unique in that it's a walkable, engaging neighborhood where people genuinely connect," said Webster, who moved to the area in 2018 with his partner, Jeff Dugan. "The key is ensuring that people understand their role in shaping what happens next." Read More
